The screenshot shows the Facebook page for 'Talk With Me ASD-S'. The page features a profile picture of a smiling face in a speech bubble and a cover photo of two children playing with toys. The page has a navigation menu on the left with options like Home, About, Posts, Photos, and Community. A 'Create a Page' button is visible. The main content area shows a post from 'Talk With Me ASD-S' with the text: 'Do you feel overloaded with toys? One of the best things you can do is pack a bunch up in a box and store it away in the closet or the basement. Wait a week or two then bring out some of the toys from the box and pack away the others. It helps to keep things fresh, interesting and sparks creativity and often encourages new words! So not only will you be helping your child's brain development you will keep your house less cluttered! #winwin #packupthosetoy #oldseemsnewagain'. The post has 487 likes and 479 followers. Anglophone South School District has organized an online virtual gallery for its students.

ASD-S fine arts coach Andrea Lewis, who is managing the submitted artwork and helping with the website, said she's received great feedback from kids.

"[The kids] are very excited. The parents are excited as well. One little girl said she feels like she's famous."
