

NVS Update Monday, November 23, 2020

Dear Nashwaak Valley families,

As we head into this week following the Covid-19 message sent out by Superintendent David McTimoney:

Reminder: Everyone travelling between Orange and Yellow alert zones must self-monitor and wear a mask for 14 days and must follow directives in accordance with the Mandatory Order as if they were in the orange phase. This applies to travelling professionals, supply teachers, school personnel and students, and employees of early learning and childcare facilities and children attending early learning and childcare facilities. This only applies to the individual who has travelled and does not apply to other members of the same household. It is recommended that members of the household self-monitor and get tested if they develop symptoms of COVID-19.

The final Orange Level document has been posted to our school website as well.
