For the next twelve school days, Students in Woman, Media and Culture 120 are organizing activities to commemorate the international program of "16 Days of Activism Against Gender Violence."

There will be a variety of posters going up throughout the school during these next two weeks, as well as a few morning announcements. At noon, Woman, Media and Culture students will sell white ribbons to remember and honour the millions who have been silenced by gender violence, most specifically, domestic violence. All money raised will be donated to Sanctuary House in Woodstock, a shelter for abused women.

WMC students will be wearing a necklace made of index cards for the next two weeks, bearing information pertaining to gender violence. Feel free to chat- these students are keen to raise awareness of this critical human rights issue.
