Today is World AIDS Day! It is an opportunity for people worldwide to unite in the fight against HIV, show their support for people living with HIV and to commemorate the more than 35 million people who have died from the virus (one of the most destructive pandemics in world history).

Globally an estimated 34 million people currently have HIV. Today, many scientific advances have been made in HIV treatment, there are laws to protect people living with HIV and we understand so much more about the condition. But despite this, many people do not know the facts about how to protect themselves and others from HIV, and stigma and discrimination remain a reality for many people living with HIV. World AIDS Day is important as it reminds us all that HIV has not gone away – there is still a vital need to raise money, increase awareness, fight prejudice and improve education.
