

Sweet revenge

(MEDIA) Blood everywhere! Maggie Brown (age 12) was murdered last night. All we know about the murderer (Unknown Subject) is that they're target's unsuspecting children between ages 8-13 in the month of October – children like Maggie Brown. We advise that age group to always be with a parents or guardians for their safety.

(UNSUB) I logged onto Facebook searching for my next victim. I love hearing them scream, begging for their innocent lives. But they're not innocent - none of them are. They're alive while he is dead.

(AZALEA) I ran upstairs and turned on my computer screen (I must have left it on when I left for school). My Facebook was still logged on. I had a friend request! I clicked "yes" - judging by her photo she looked around my age.

(MEDIA) Two more killed: Rose Prise (age 8) and Caleb White (age 10).

(UNSUB) Looks like I have a new victim named Azalea, but first I have to finish with Jacob. Halloween's almost here and I'll stop until next year. He suffered, so will they.

(AZALEA) Maggie Brown seems like a cool chick. We've been talking a lot lately. It turns out we're in the same grade. She wants to hang out this weekend. 'Sure', I typed.

"Mom can I hang out with Maggie this weekend?" I asked at dinner. My mom frowned,

"Who's Maggie?" she asked.

"A girl I met." I replied with a shrug.

"Where'd you meet her at?" she asked.

"Facebook", I casually responded.

"No, you barely even know her, you probably don't even know her last name!"

"Brown" I retorted.

"What?" my mother asked, confused.

“Her last name is Brown, Maggie Brown.”

“M-M-Maggie B-Brown!” she stuttered.

“Yeah. So?”. Now it was my turn to be confused.

“Will you please show me her photo?”

(UNSUB) I finished putting the sleeping pill in his food. “Thanks Mrs. White,” he said.

“Smile” I said while taking a picture.

“Where’s Caleb?” he asked. “Oh, he has lacrosse practice, it should be done by now.” I quickly lied. “Oh”, Jacob simply replied while taking a bite of his food, and then he collapsed on the floor.

An hour passed before he woke up tied to a chair and blind folded. “Caleb,” he said weakly.

“Oh don’t worry you’ll see him very soon...” I said sinisterly while unsheathing my knife.

“M-Mrs. White, is that you” he asked,

“Nope just me.”

“P-please don’t hurt me,” he begged.

“They had no mercy neither will I.”

“Who?” he asked, his voice barely above a whisper. I brought the knife down in his stomach. He cried out in pain and I smiled at his screams, than whispered:

“His killers”

(MEDIA) Another dead, when will this blood bath end? Jacob Perry (age 11) was found dead in an abandoned warehouse by local police while searching the area. But this murder was different from the others - written in blood there was a message: “They will suffer because of his death “. The police suspect a middle age man/woman who lost a male loved one. If something strange happens or you receive a strange message, please contact the local police as an extra precaution.

(AZALEA) We ran upstairs as soon as my mom grabbed the newspaper. I typed my pass word in, then logged on to Facebook and showed her Maggie’s photo. “W-when did you say she sent you this?”, she whispered. “Today,” I replied. Why was my mom acting so weird? Then she handed an article to me. The first thing I noticed was the headline “BLOODY DAY”. I quickly read the first lines then gasped.

(UNSUB) I had told Azalea that my “mom” would pick her up at the park, but instead the people I’ve been avoiding the last five years were there - the police.

(AZALEA) “If Maggie Brown’s been dead for the past three days, then who was I talking to?” I wondered out loud. I turned around when I heard a THUD. My mom had fainted.

Only then did I realize I’d been talking to the killer - latest target ME! When my mom woke up I called 9-1-1. I answered all their questions and explained I was supposed to meet the killer tonight. They asked me when and where, then thanked me and I hung up.

(MEDIA) After five years of murdering, Annie Richard (age 35) was arrested for killing over thirty victims and one attempted murder. Her penalty shall be a life sentence in prison. Annie’s only survivor (Azalea O’Connell) confirms that the killer was using Facebook to lure the victims in by taking on the character of the latest victim and taking photos of them minutes before their death.

“According to records”, Officer Black says, “Annie Richard’s son James Richard was murdered on Halloween night five years ago. That’s what we think triggered the killing spree.”

(ANNIE) Why’d I do it? The answer is simple. Sweet revenge.

By: Natasha Taylor

