

HARBOUR VIEWS

Issue 3

November 2016

"Great achievement is usually born of great sacrifice, and is never the result of selfishness." - Napoleon Hill

The importance of remembrance

By Destiny Larocque

You stand in silence with your head bent down. 20 seconds pass, and you shift your position ever so slightly. The poppy that is pinned to the left side of your shirt – a symbol of remembrance – pokes into your skin. Ouch, you think.

Of the 424,589 Canadians that fought overseas in World War 1, 66,655 died and 172,950 were wounded. Almost one in every ten Canadian soldiers did not return. But those soldiers who served in war are more than a statistic; their lives are worth more than a number on a page. These were real people, who bravely risked their lives for our freedom. So you ask yourself, what is the prick of a pin compared to a battle wound?

43 seconds have gone by and your eyes wander to the corner of your vision where you can see your friend's shoes. You wonder if they will be free to hang out later, and make a mental note to ask them about it after the ceremony. Maybe you could gather a few other friends and do something together for the long weekend. There's no school the next day.

These fallen soldiers were once somebody's friends, and they once had a family, too; parents, siblings who quite possibly drove them crazy, and some may have even had children. Everybody who left for war had a life they were leaving behind, but not everybody survived, and not everybody who came back alive was able to return to that life. Many soldiers suffered Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder during combat and after the war ended. In 1919, a year after the war ended, almost 40% of reported male suicides in Canada, and close to 80% of male suicides aged 18-39, involved war veterans.

Another 60 seconds has passed now, only 17 left to go. Your legs are sore from standing, and you need to cough but don't want to disturb the silence. Only 17 seconds left to go, you tell yourself.

Harbour View High School celebrates and honours Remembrance Day with heavy hearts. The ceremony takes place on November 10th and demonstrates our utmost respect for our war veterans and fallen soldiers. 54 Vocational alumni lost their lives in the war.

"The students see the headlines of war but forget about the personal stories and how it impacts lives. To take two minutes to remember is important," says Ms. Sanderson, the teacher in charge of music at the ceremony.

"Reveille" plays from the trumpet, signalling the end of the two minutes. The silence among the audience remains. You raise your head reluctantly and glance around, the names of the deceased flashing through your mind. You think of everything in your daily life that you take for granted, and that you wouldn't have if not for the brave soldiers who fought for the future, for you and me. Lest we forget, you think.

November at HVHS

2nd - Take Your Kids to Work ,
Grade 9

11th - Remembrance Day

24th - Parent Teacher, 4:30-7:30

25th - Parent Teacher, 1:30-3:30

In this issue...

Students vs. Teachers	2
Sports with Ethan and Alex	4
Wellness Week	6
SCENES	7
HVHS's school garden	8
Musical Notes	10
Hollywood gossip	11

Students
vs.
Teachers

We asked you: What's the best song to dance to?

Peter Boyce
Cha Cha Slide
DJ Casper

Kelsey Dillon
Heathen
21 Pilots

Abby Campbell
Anything by Beyonce

Jake Estabrooks
& Katelyn
Pickel-
MacDonald
Shake It Off -
Taylor Swift

Mr. Bidgood
Jive Talking -
The Bee Gees
Or Come on Eileen -
Dexy's Midnight
Runners

Ms. Sanderson
Blame it on the Boogie -
Michael Jackson

Ms. Bosse
Shut Up and Dance With Me -
Walk the Moon

Mr. McCaustlin
Anything by the teacher band

By Rachel Fullerton-Quin

In the past I've been able to travel to and explore Mexico, various states, and every province east of Ontario. On the March break this year I will have the opportunity to visit Venice, Florence and Rome. This is my first time travelling outside of North America so as you can imagine I am beyond excited. Not only will I be visiting an entirely different continent, I will be visiting a country with plenty of history. To me, travelling and seeing the world is something I want to make a lifelong pursuit. In university, I'll study abroad and do work terms around the world – hopefully finding various homes along the way.

I find it hard to understand when someone tells me they do not enjoy travelling. The world is big, with places vastly different than southern New Brunswick. It's a valuable thing to be able to see the world, see the landscapes, eat the foods, meet people, and experience different cultures. It's an intimidating thought to leave your comfort zone and go somewhere where you might not even understand the language, but the worldly knowledge gained, and the experiences had can make it all worth it. Plus, you always walk away with a good story and maybe some new friends.

Even if you are not one for travelling, it is important to see your own town or city through the eyes of a tourist. Tons of cruise ships visit our port city every year. I know how Saint John must look to visitors from away: spectacular architecture, great places to eat and shop and friendly people. It's a great experiment to pretend to be from out of town and play tourist for a day in your hometown. You start to see the culture come alive. Take a walk down Harbour Passage, visit the museum, eat at a one of a kind restaurant, and take in a local show.

When it comes down to it, Saint John is a beautiful city, but there is so much more out there. There is always more to learn, more things to do, and more places to visit. Start by exploring your own city, and then explore someone else's.

Harbour Views Staff

Editor: Rachel Fullerton-Quin

Staff Writers: Alexandre Banks, Hallie Bourque, Aaron Sousa, Ethan Higgins Watson

Contributors: Makenzie Burbridge, Molly Doiron, Ally Hebert, Destiny Larocque, Tatum Lyons, Ian McGill

Advisor: Ms. McDonald

Proof Reader: Ms. Vickers

Next issue: December 2016

HVHS PSSC Update

Submitted by Jane Fullerton
PSSC Chair

The HVHS Parent School Support Committee held its first meeting on Tuesday, October 11. There are 11 parent members, as well as representatives from the school, student council and the District Education Council. The Committee selected the Executive for the 2016-17 year. Jane Fullerton will serve as the Chair, Mary Delaney will be the Vice-Chair and Denise McGill will be the Secretary. The Committee heard updates on several school activities, and received copies of the School Improvement Plan (SIP). Since this is the last year for the current plan, one of the PSSC's priorities this year will be participation in the development of the next SIP.

Members also discussed the Mental Wellness event 'It Takes a Village to Raise a Teen', held on October 4 at Saint John High School. The event was organized by representatives of the four Saint John high school PSSCs and was well received by participants. Further activities addressing Mental Wellness and related topics will be held during the upcoming months; parents and community members are encouraged to attend. Our thanks to Mary Delaney, who represents the HVHS PSSC on the organizing committee for these events.

The next PSSC meeting will be Monday, November 14 at 6 pm. If you have any questions or suggestions for the PSSC, please email Jane at w.jane.fullerton@gmail.com.

EASPNN

Ethan and Alexandre's Sports News Network

By Alexandre Banks and Ethan Higgins Watson

Hello fellow Vikings! October was an outstanding month for Harbour View's fall sports, many wins were taken by our teams as well as a few near victories. So far this fall has highlighted many athletic accomplishments. All of our boys' and girls' field hockey, soccer, cross country, golf, baseball and softball teams have worked extremely hard and they should all be congratulated for their dedication. There are many sports which are beginning throughout November, and we can't wait to see how they all perform this month.

Our Viking field hockey team has held their reputation on the field; they have been undefeated all season. They have won seven games and have tied four, furthermore, the girls have scored 34 well-earned cumulative points throughout their season. Their amazing team is led by captains Eden Keilty, Kaley Watters and Bridgette Tomilson. To make provincials our Field Hockey team had to beat RNS and SJHS. They fell just short of this goal in a nail-biting game, but had a spectacular season.

Our HVHS golf team had an amazing performance and time at their Regionals tournament at the Sussex Golf and Country Club. Though they may not have placed as well as they hoped, they did their best and had fun. Way to go guys!

The girls' softball team had an amazing season directly from the beginning!

They had a seemingly endless winning streak and they won the KV tournament at the beginning of their season. They had a stunning performance at provincials resulting in a fourth place finish. Great job athletes on a great softball season!

The junior boys soccer team played exceptionally well these past few weeks. They kept their record nice and even with a loss against STM with a score of 7 - 2, a loss to SJHS with a score of 7 - 2, and two wins against KVHS with scores of 1 - 0 and 2 - 1. Goals were scored by: Gerry Bidgood, Jack Fury-Miller and Luke Khitab. Fantastic work guys! The boys' first playoff game was Saturday the 15th and they sadly lost to SJHS 3 - 1 in the semifinals, but I know they left it all on the field. The boys play hard and always remember to have a fantastic time.

Our very own HVHS junior girls soccer team had one incredible season. They won two well-earned games and had six near wins. Their team excelled throughout their season and set the bar high for their competition. The soccer team which is led by Lauren McKinley and Emma Palmer made their way into regionals through hard dedicated efforts! In regionals the girls played a memorial game that stunned the audience; however they lost in the end to Saint Malachy's high school. This season the girls' soccer team accomplished a great feat by going to regionals. A great season was had by all soccer players!

The Vikings on the football team and the coaches deserve many high fives! Our football players have done amazingly well in their season and are getting better every practice. To prove this, the boys beat Rothesay 36 - 6 and Miramichi 54 - 19! Touch downs were scored by: Brad Bordage, John Baird, Luke Janes, Tyler Hooley and Jake Estabrooks. Way to go, guys! Keep on working hard and making us proud.

L-R: K. O'Connell (coach) with graduating co-captains Eden Keilty, Kaley Watters and N. Lyon (coach)

(Photo submitted by K. O'Connell)

(Photo submitted by Makenzie Burbridge)

The HVHS cross country team also did well at their meets. For Regionals in Fundy, we performed very well with almost all of our runners making it to Provincials. The Provincial races took place at O'Dell Park in Fredericton and it was a great time. The junior girls were the first to race. They ran 3 km and our only Viking running was Rachel Sheehan. She did an incredible job coming 31st place.

The next race was the junior boys with a course of 4 Km. Our only two runners were David Fox and Ethan Higgins Watson. David Fox and Ethan ran remarkably well coming in at 27th and 35th.

For the seniors we only had male runners who qualified for provincials.

These included: Colin Brown, Alexandre Banks and Sebastian Velandia. They all were outstanding! For their 5 km run, Colin Brown came in 38th place, Sebastian Velandia took 26th place and Alexandre Banks performed so well coming in fourth place! Our cross country team is always working hard and ready to have a blast. They truly impressed this year.

So far it looks like the cheerleading team is going to have a spectacular season! The cheerleading team has just begun their season this month. The tryouts were the 4th, 11th, and 18th of October. The competitions this year will be in the months of March, April and May. Good luck team!

From the field into the water! Our Viking swim team has just begun in October and it looks like the team is on the road to provincials! They have practices every Tuesday and Thursday, and their first competition will be late in November. The swim team is going to leave their competition laps behind them. Good luck swimmers.

Boys basketball tryouts took place in mid-October. There was a good turnout of players and it looks like it will be a great season for them.

All in all it was a great half to the season and all our HVHS Viking athletes should be proud of their stellar accomplishments. We are looking forward to seeing our HVHS sports teams continuing to strive for their best.

L-R: Ethan Higgins Watson, Michael Delaney, David Fox, Marta Carrera Fernandez, Alex Banks, Sebastian Valendia, Laura Schloegl, Rachel Sheehan (photo submitted by M. Banks)

'X' marks the spot:

Put an x where you think the soccer ball is and drop this picture down to Mr. Bidgood's room, 300, for a chance to win a prize! Deadline to participate is November 15th.

HVHS Wellness programme receives substantial grant

Story and photos by Rachel Fullerton-Quin

Over the past couple of years, a healthy living state of mind has begun to take over the students and staff of Harbour View. Through monthly activities of reading, cooking, dancing, and eating, Wellness at HV has developed into a strong and creative program.

This year, the Wellness program will be taking it a step further, with more activities and a longer time to enjoy them. The main goals for the Wellness activities are to promote healthy eating and mental health. On the first Wednesday of each month, students have the first hour of the day to be able to learn new skills and meet new friends through various activities. So far, students have been loving it.

“Wellness week #1 was a great success!” 12th grader Ally Hebert said. “Having it during period one makes sure that a lot more people can attend events. There were also a lot of cool new activities this year; all of them were unique and fun!”

The various activities and clubs give the students a chance to be leaders as well as develop self-esteem. Mrs Scott, one of the teachers leading Wellness, hopes to see everyone walking away with a smile.

Jacob Kennedy, Gage Kelly and Evan Hunt make music during Wellness Week.

Destiny Larocque and Tatum Lyons dive into their books during Wellness Week.

This year Harbour View has been lucky enough to have been awarded a grant of $23,500 which has allowed several additions and improvements to the program. In November 2015, Ms Lennon, the Environmental Science teacher as well as a Wellness leader, applied to the Healthy Kids Innovation Grant from the Whole Kids Foundation. HV has been doing great with limited funding, including the breakfast program, the fitness room, smoothie days, healthy snack days, the food bank, and the school garden. With this grant, the Wellness program can spread throughout the school.

“The vision is to incorporate not just mental health, but the school garden, the greenhouse, the sunshine room, breakfast program, lunch program and SRC events.” Lennon says.

Over the next few years, Wellness hopes to see more cooking classes, even turning into an after school activity, along with expanding the garden and greenhouse – maybe even a Grow Lab and classroom garden.

The Wellness program has helped shape even more of the Viking community, hopefully inspiring both students and staff to become more involved with healthy living.

(Left) Board games are always a popular wellness activity.

(Right) Ms. Bosse shares her dogs Hunter and James.

SCENES: the most fun you can have in one (actually two) night(s)

By Ally Hebert

Scenes 2016!

It's that time of year again... SCENES season! In case you don't know, SCENES is a show that gives students a chance to perform previously written theatre pieces directed by other HVHS students. It's a wonderful opportunity for all sorts of people to come to the stage (or backstage) and let their unique skills shine. Singers, actors, dancers, and musicians from all grades work hard to put together a marvellous show. There is a wide variety of talented students here. Every year the amount of talent amazes me. Seeing so many people being involved is also great and especially for students stepping a little out of their comfort zones. This year the line up includes scenes from The Lion King, Grease, High School Musical, Monty Python, and more! There are lots of acts suitable for anyone to enjoy.

L-R: Bennett Young, John Harley, Raphael Aguia and Emily Alston rehearse their scene.

Mya Yates and Olivia Potter, two grade nine students, are both in three scenes and co-directing "The King of New York" from Newbies.

"I joined because I liked musical a lot and I wanted to do more things like that," said Mya.

Olivia echoed Mya's sentiment saying she thought musical was a great experience and wanted to get on the stage again..

Kennedy McGeachy and Peter Boyce rehearse their scene.

Third year SCENES participant Meagan Galbraith is co-directing her first ever scene (I've Got a Dream from Disney's Tangled) with Christen Curran-Wall.

"When I joined SCENES in grade ten I thought it was really cool. It showcases many talented people who don't necessarily get to be in musical, and I love meeting new people," Meagan said.

Caleb Hunter took on the role of a SCENES Manager this year. He's responsible for making sure everything runs smoothly and everyone is included.

"The one thing I will miss most about SCENES is the family that is created with the people around you. All of the actors come and are focused on the same goal, to produce a great show," Caleb said.

Make sure not to miss this exciting production with performances on December 1st and 2nd!

CONGRATULATIONS, Mr. Armstrong!

Mr. Armstrong was the recipient of one of two WorkSafe NB Health and Safety Educator Awards. Mr. Armstrong teaches skills trades at Harbour View High School, and was a member of the safety advisory committee that improved safety in skills trades and technology courses.

How does your garden grow?

Story and photos by Tatum Lyons

Harbour View High School, home of the Vikings, is one of the few schools in New Brunswick that has its own school garden. The garden is completely maintained by students, staff and their families, who have shown a real sense of ownership and responsibility and taken great pride in their efforts.

The project started with saving the greenhouse located beside the teacher's parking lot. Ms. Lennon and her Environmental Science and Biology 11 classes worked hard to save the green house, and in the process also gained the space beside it.

"This motivated me to move forward with a project in an attempt to build an outdoor classroom," said Ms. Lennon. Previous classes had worked with the other green space surrounding our school, but she felt that having our own vegetable garden would be beneficial, and influence the school community to eat healthier.

Students from Ms. Lennon's Environmental Science class get some hands on experience.

David Sewell-Saunders with some of the kale harvested from the garden.

The first grant Ms. Lennon received for the school garden was from the TC Friends of the Environment Foundation (FOEF) for $3 500 in May of 2015. Today, the garden has received over $10, 000 dollars for our seeds, tools and fencing supplies.

"The goal for this year will be to finish the fence, which will be chain linked so the school can still see into the garden. It will also include a door on the neighbour side so it will be available to our school community. The gardens developed on the side hill will need to be secured and prepared so more fruits and vegetables can be planted in the spring. The final part of the project will be the outdoor classroom. I would like to have two benches and a board so teachers can use this area for instructional purposes," explained Ms. Lennon.

Mrs. Lennon has obviously had an instrumental part in the success of this project, but she is quick to praise the fifteen families, consisting of HV staff and students, who maintained the garden during the summer months. Students from this year's Environmental Science class continue to maintain the garden. During the winter months, the garden will hopefully be open for business with the help of a few cold frames built by the Framing and Sheathing class, as well with the help of crop covers.

Harbour View's garden is just one more reason why this school is such an amazing place to work and learn.

Welcome to Big Data High

By Cherise Letson

SAINT JOHN – Over 875 high school students from across New Brunswick packed the Saint John Trade and Convention Centre on Wednesday to attend a different kind of class.

Big Data High is the final event of the Big Data Congress which took place this week in Saint John. The student event, organized by T4G and TechImpact, aimed to help New Brunswick high school students learn how to power their personal passions with technology. Students heard from national and provincial tech and entrepreneurial leaders about their journeys and how students could use technology to not only build a career but even change the world. Speakers included Leslie McBeth from the Future Design School; Dhirendra Shukla, UNB's TME director (Technology Management and Entrepreneurship); David Alston, CIO of Introhive and former CMO for Radian6; Jeff Wilson, executive director of Brilliant Labs and Sarah Short of the Youth Entrepreneurship Challenge.

For Janet Wilson, a teacher at Harbour View High School in Saint John, exposing her students to the possibilities of a career in tech benefits not only them but the province as a whole. "I've always been an advocate of business and IT. I think if you get a good education in those fields that you can have a great career in New Brunswick, which is amazing," Wilson said. "Also, I think it's one of the ways we're going to solve the economic issues of the province, so I think getting kids to be entrepreneurs and learn how to code and develop programming is going to bring us a long way. Wilson brought a mix of students of different backgrounds to the event. Some are serious about a career in tech, while others were just exploring their options. One of those students was Liz Delaney, whose interest in tech was sparked when Brilliant Labs gave a presentation at the school a few weeks ago.

John Mifflin and Spencer Robichaud at BigData.

(Photo submitted by John Mifflin)

"I don't necessarily know exactly what I want to do yet, so seeing this is giving me some exposure to it and may be helping me decide whether this is the path to go down," the grade 11 student said. "I want to learn how people figured out that they wanted to pursue this and what really sparked their interest in it," she said. "Because I do think it's really cool, especially [since] technology is such a big deal now and in the future, that's what everything is going to be based on. It's better to have people know what's going on first and get involved before it fully comes through." Wilson said she hopes her students left the event inspired. "What I hope the students who are familiar with IT and computer science take away is just what a strong presence we have in Saint John for IT companies and what an opportunity there is here," she said. "And for students who may not be as familiar, I hope they just come away with passion and interest that they're going to dive into it a little bit more and perhaps catch 'the bug.' It might lead to some careers in the room, so that's fantastic."

(Reprinted from <http://huddle.today/welcome-big-data-high/>)

Les nouvelles en Français

Par Molly Doiron

Êtes-vous intéressé par la technologie? Est-ce que vous pouvez voir dans une possible carrière en technologie? Le Big Data Conference — qui est la plus grande conférence de technologie et de data en Amérique du Nord — est accueilli par notre propre ville. J'ai eu la chance d'assister à la conférence avec environ 40 autres élèves de notre belle école et je suis tellement heureuse d'avoir eu cette opportunité. La journée a commencé avec des mots précieux de Leslie McBeth qui nous a encouragés à résoudre les problèmes les plus grandes au monde. Un des autres invités était un professeur à l'UNBF, Dhirendra Shukla, et il était la personne qui m'a inspiré le plus. Il a dépassé des obstacles qui étaient entre lui et ses rêves, et à prouver que même si les personnes n'avaient pas de cofinance en lui il a quand même accompli plusieurs choses.

Autre qu'écouter à de nombreux autres invités on a aussi eu la chance de tester nos compétences pour résoudre les problèmes qui sont pertinents non seulement à la province de Nouveau-Brunswick mais aussi le monde. Mon groupe a eu la grande tâche à déterminer une solution pour le taux de chômage élevé. On a décidé qu'une solution sera de diminué le taux d'impôt des petites entreprises pour que les entrepreneurs désirent établir leurs entreprises ici. C'était un bon exercice selon moi, car dans un avenir proche ça va être nous qui prenons les décisions qui affectent la province et même le pays.

Ce n'était pas seulement moi qui ai trouvé cette expérience enrichissante. J'ai parlé à quelques élèves après la conférence et ils m'ont dit que les invités ont changé leurs perspectives et d'abord ont pu s'inspirer à considérer autres choix de carrières. Surtout toutes les personnes qui m'ont parlé a dit que c'était une expérience d'apprentissage incroyable. « Aujourd'hui m'a aidé à réaliser que la technologie nous donne beaucoup d'opportunités diverses d'apprentissage, et que la technologie peut être appliqué à tous les aspects de nos vies, » dit Hannah-Marie McCarthy. Enfin, si vous êtes intéressés par la technologie je recommande que vous y assistiez l'année prochaine.

L-R: Kathryn Nason, Hannah-Marie McCarthy, Liz Delaney, Ellie Bidgood and Lauren McKinley (Photo submitted by Ellie Bidgood)

By Hallie Bourque

My mother always told me back in her high school days to get music for free you needed to record it on the radio with a cassette (and it was really annoying when the DJ cut off the song at the end). She told me she spent many New Year's Days alongside her boombox to listen and record the top 100 songs of the last year.

With how easily music can be obtained today, it is usually undervalued and taken for granted, but the songs in this playlist were born before iTunes and YouTube, and were bought from the record/cassette/CD store. Teachers, make this November nostalgic with this playlist made for you.

This playlist can be found at: 8tracks.com/halliebourque You can find last month's playlist there, too.

You Make Me Feel So Young - Frank Sinatra (1959)

Hey Jude - The Beatles (1968)

Suspicious Minds - Elvis Presley (1969)

Tiny Dancer - Elton John (1971)

Smoke on the Water - Deep Purple (1972)

Born to Run - Bruce Springsteen (1975)

Hotel California - The Eagles (1976)

Stayin' Alive - Bee Gee's (1977)

Heroes - David Bowie (1977)

Go Your Own Way - Fleetwood Mac (1977)

Grease - Frankie Valli (1978)

I Wanna Be Your Lover - Prince (1979)

Billie Jean - Michael Jackson (1982)

Under Pressure - Queen (1982)

Photograph - Def Leppard (1983)

Don't You (Forget About Me) - Simple Minds (1985)

Blame It On the Rain - Milli Vanilli (1986)

Smells Like Teen Spirit - Nirvana (1991)

One - U2 (1991)

No Diggity - Blackstreet (1994)

Grace, Too - The Tragically Hip (1994)

Only Wanna be with You - Hootie and the Blowfish (1995)

Gettin' Jiggy Wit It - Will Smith (1998)

Music Review: Phantogram

By Ian McGill

New York band, Phantogram, has been producing brilliant electro rock tunes since 2007, and they continue to grow more popular each day, especially thanks to their new album, Three. The album, which was released on October 7, 2016, reached number nine on the Billboard 200 and number three on the US rock and alternative charts.

The album brilliantly uses a wide variety of different instruments and musical techniques to create an incredible alternative sound that keeps the listener enthralled the entire time. They use different styles and genres of music as well, but put their own twist on them to create a signature sound, unique to the band. They combine elements of heavy rock, pop, dance and electro, by adding piano, synthesizers, distortion and a large amount of bass.

Another element of the album that is simply breathtaking is the dynamics. The album jumps around between songs of a heavier, more intense dynamic, to a softer, more delicate dynamic, and the listener will certainly not get bored, since there is such a difference between each and every song on the album.

So, whether you are a fan of alternative music or not, I highly recommend you rush on down to your local record store and purchase this masterpiece of electro rock.

My Favorite Three Songs

Same Old Blues

You Don't Get Me High Anymore

Barking Dog

By Aaron Sousa

Hey kids, Aaron here. Can you believe that it's November already? It seems like only a few weeks ago that I was busy performing in the fall musical. Oh wait, that was a few weeks ago. Everybody did an amazing job and I hope you got a chance to see it. Now as much I love the wonderful local talent we have at this school, let's take our monthly trip to "The City of Angels." Prepare for take off.

Pitch Perfect 3: Great news, everyone. Universal Studios has decided to make another Pitch Perfect movie and Anna Kendrick, along with Rebel Wilson have signed their contracts and are ready to start filming this latest instalment.

The movie is expected to be released in December of next year. The sequel to the original, Pitch Perfect 2 was the highest-grossing musical film of all time, earning a total of $287.5 million dollars at the box office worldwide.

Space Jam: Hey you 90's kids, grab your bling and hammer time because this month, the Looney Tunes movie, Space Jam will be returning to theatres for a limited time to celebrate the film's 20th anniversary. This is perfect timing because it just so happens that a few young men by the names of Justin Lin, Andrew Dodge, and Alfredo Botello are working on the script for a sequel to the 90s box office hit. When first released November, 1996, Space Jam earned $230.4 million dollars worldwide.

Photo credit:

<http://www.neontommy.com/news/2015/11/retro-movie-reviews-space-jam>

Fuller House: Oh my lanta!! The Tanners are coming back. Yes, the Netflix original series Fuller House has been renewed for a second season which will premiere on December 9th of this year. If you watch the show, the Season 1 finale left us with Kimmy and Fernando planning on getting remarried after secretly having multiple make out sessions with each other in the last few episodes. Sadly, after walking down the aisle three times in five minutes, Kimmy was not ready to tie the knot with him again. We also saw the dramatic conclusion to DJ's love affairs, where she had to decide if she was going to date her high school sweetheart, Steve, or her co worker and business partner, Matt. After the two men giving their reasons to date them, (a la Bachelorette,) DJ picked... neither of them. She felt that she wasn't ready to move on yet, and that she needs more time to mourn over the loss of her husband.

Photo credit:

<http://boingboing.net/2016/03/07/netflix-fuller-house-is-bril.html>

We have officially landed back in Saint John, N.B. Thank you for flying SousaCruisa Hollywood Airlines. It was a short one this month, sorry guys. But I promise that I will write a nice long column for the next issue.

That's The Glimmer In The Stars...

2015-2016

Harbour View
High School

Gold
Academic Achievement Award

